

February's Presenter of the Month

TRAUMA INFORMED, CULTURALLY ATTUNED DISABILITY PRACTICE

This 2-hour continuing education workshop provides participants with a comprehensive framework for delivering trauma-informed, culturally attuned, and person-centered services to disabled individuals and immigrant families across New York City. Drawing on disability justice principles, trauma-informed care models, and cultural humility frameworks, this course explores how trauma, migration experiences, cultural identity, and systemic barriers intersect to shape support needs in disability services.
